As we approach the holiday season we look forward to enjoying ourselves. For all of us, the key to a good holiday is doing what we want to do. Increasingly, however, we are being asked not to go to certain places. The reason given is 'over-tourism'. What does over-tourism mean? Why are we being asked to stay away? Is there a valid reason why we should not go? Have you experienced over-tourism? Does the thought of being an 'over-tourist' influence the choice of your holiday destination? Come and join the discussion! Bridge in the Atrium (no tutor)
